Aid and development policy in Australia and the region: The big issues

Thursday 19 April 5.30 - 6.30pm, followed by refreshments

Hedley Bull Lecture Theatre 1, Hedley Bull Centre 130, ANU

The Development Policy Centre provides a unique Australian and regional meeting place for researchers and those in the government and non-government sector working in aid and development policy.

We are based at the Crawford School of Public Policy in the College of Asia and the Pacific at the Australian National University, and were established in September 2010.

The launch of our 2011 Annual Report is an opportunity to celebrate the achievements of our first year and to discuss plans for the year ahead. It is also a chance to brainstorm the key issues in aid and development policy in Australia and the region. What are the issues which policy makers and researchers should focus on? And what needs to be done to raise the profile of this largely invisible area of policy making? Please join us for an informal and stimulating discussion with some of the leading thinkers and players in this space, on a range of topics from the future of aid in Australia to the future of the Pacific and PNG.

Panel members :

- > Professor Stephen Howes, Director, Development Policy Centre
- > The Hon. Dr Andrew Leigh, Federal Member for Fraser
- > The Hon. Mr Charles Lepani, Papua New Guinea High Commissioner to Australia
- > Dr Julia Newton-Howes, CEO, CARE Australia
- > Mr Simon McKeon, 2011 Australian of the Year and Chairman, CSIRO and Business for Millennium Development Goals
