

Launch of the 2015 Australian aid stakeholder survey

Thursday 11 February 9.40 – 10.30am

Speaker

Terence Wood

Research Fellow
Development Policy Centre
ANU

Location

Molonglo Theatre

Level 2, JG Crawford Building 132
Lennox Crossing, ANU

Image by DFAT Flickr

Registration at

crawford.anu.edu.au/events

E macarena.rojas@anu.edu.au

T 02 6125 7922

This event is free and open to the public.

If you have registered for the 2016 Australasian Aid Conference, you are automatically registered for this event.

In 2013 the Development Policy Centre conducted the first ever comprehensive survey of Australia's aid stakeholders, canvassing their views of the Australian aid program. Since then Australian aid has changed dramatically: AusAID is no more, the focus of aid has shifted, and the aid budget has been cut dramatically. In 2015 the Centre re-ran the stakeholder survey, and the data from the two surveys provides a unique opportunity to examine the impacts of these changes. In his presentation Terence Wood will reveal what the 2015 Australian aid stakeholder found. He will look at what has gotten better, and what has gotten worse, and offer suggestions for improving Australian aid.

Terence Wood is a Research Fellow at the Development Policy Centre. He heads the Development Policy Centre's program of research into Australian and New Zealand aid. Terence's research interests include aid policy, the politics of aid, and governance in developing countries. Prior to commencing PhD study Terence worked for the New Zealand government aid program.

Presented by

Development Policy
Centre

Crawford School of Public Policy

ANU College of Asia & the Pacific

This public lecture is part of the 2016 Australasian Aid Conference, February 10-11, 2016. For more information, go to: devpolicy.crawford.anu.edu.au/annual-australasian-aid-conference/2016

This event is presented by the Asia Foundation and the Development Policy Centre at Crawford School of Public Policy, The Australian National University.

