

AGRICULTURE AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT IN INDONESIA

Mubyarto Public Policy Forum

Covid-19 and jobs: implications for Indonesia's on-going rural transformation

Associate Professor Emeritus Chris Manning
The Australian National University

Urban farming during the pandemic

Professor Catur Sugiyanto
Universitas Gadjah Mada

Reinforcing cooperative norms in rural development during the pandemic and beyond

Dr Lucenteza Napitupulu
World Resources Institute Indonesia

The late Professor Mubyarto was a renowned advocate for agricultural and rural development, as well as poverty alleviation in Indonesia. Chris Manning will discuss how the coronavirus pandemic has increased the number of rural and agricultural employment and how such revival can become more permanent than in the post-AFC period. Catur Sugiyanto will review and discuss the growing urban farming in Yogyakarta: what and who they are and how these activities can support the urban poor. Lucenteza Napitupulu will explain how the pandemic has sharpened the need to capitalise on existing cooperative behaviour to stimulate community collective action in overcoming the impact of the pandemic and how it can transform rural development.

Thursday 15 April

10am-12pm WIB

1-3pm AEST

Registration

Bit.ly/2021MPPF

Contact

ANU Indonesia Project

E – Indonesia.Project@anu.edu.au

W – Indonesia.crawfrod@anu.edu.au

Hosted by

ANU Indonesia Project

Universitas Gadjah Mada

UNIVERSITAS
GADJAH MADA

Australian
National University